***** * Minus 1° Temperature Monday Sets Record; * * Snow and More Cold Forecast for Days Ahead * *****

The minus-one you saw through your frosty breath, was a record for the day — January 11. And more cold will blow down from the north this Friday and Saturday after we have a "real snow-storm" Wednesday and Thursday.

"At least, it could be," says Science Associates' David Ludlum, hedging just a little into the wind.

Princeton wasn't hit as hard as New York, where buildings make a kind of wind-tunnel called a "Venturi effect," points out Dan Mazzarella, also of Science Associates. He's the one who saw that record one below zero at dawn on Monday.

Dawn? Sure. That's when he jogs. Doesn't everybody?

Not everybody is happy about cold. The health office in Borough Hall received half a dozen complaints from tenants about lack of heat. The law requires 68 degrees between 6 a.m. and 11 p.m. But maybe there's no oil, or the thermostat isn't working or the landlord can't get a plumber.

Dennis Van Horn, sanitary inspector who gets these calls, says no landlord has "out and out refused," when Mr. Van Horn calls with a complaint. There are persistent violators, chronic offenders, he says, but so far, landlords have finally provided the heat and he hasn't had to take anybody to court.

Incidentally, although the health office is short-handed, complaints about lack of heat get top priority and are investigated immediately.

"In most cases," Mr. Van Horn has found, "the tenant is right."

Whether you're tenant or owner, you may have a low enough income to qualify for help in buying fuel oil. Call Corinne Steinline, 924-0814 between 9 and 1, to find out whether you qualify.

If you do, you must take your last three paycheck stubs in person to 120 South Stockton in Trenton (the old Sears building). You will get a check. Then it's up to you to call the oil company.

Ms. Steinline's advice: don't let yourself run out of oil completely, because it costs $16 to re-light the furnace and start it up.

Getting back to the snow-shovel and the thermometer.

What made this cold so special, Mr. Ludlum explains, is that there was no warm-up during the day.

"It reminds me," he said, thumbing the old family album, "of February, 1899, when it was two below in Tallahassee. That cold wave ended with 34 inches of snow in Cape May. It's the all-time record for the whole state of New Jersey."

And he smiled happily, watching for the first snow-flake.

Design for Aluminum-Faced Office Building Meets Resistance from Some EDRC Members

"Like a stainless-steel sink only lighter in color."

"It won't take ivy."

"It picks up the color of sky and foliage — creates a dialogue with plant material."

"I hate to be old-fashioned, but ..."

"It's an opportunity to do extraordinary new buildings."

"It's your aesthetic opinion versus mine."

An aluminum office building? In the woods of Princeton Township?

Lewis C. Bowers and Sons plans 110,000 square feet of office construction on 15 acres at the end of Thanet Road, off Terhune and beyond the Institute for Defense Analyses. The firm went to the Environmental Design Review Committee Monday night for preliminary approval of the whole, and final approval for a Phase I, three-story, 60,000-square-foot building — faced with aluminum.

A two-story, 20,000-square-foot Phase II, closer to Terhune, will follow. A 30,000-square-foot Phase III will link to Phase I, making a hexagon.

Bowers wants the 550 required parking spaces reduced to 441, leaving the 109-space balance in case of future need. The firm also wants release from the Township's requirement of one new tree for every ten parking spaces. The area is wooded already, firm representatives said.

Architect William Wolte explained that the aluminum panel facade is more efficient, thermally, than masonry. It insulates well and is light-weight, requiring less on-site labor. The new Richard J. Hughes justice complex in Trenton is the nearest example, Mr. Wolte told the EDRC.

The building will be so far back from Terhune and so far from homes that the aluminum will hardly be noticed, said

Three Groups May Share in Space Provided by Paul Robeson Building

Although three groups covet the spaces of 102 Witherspoon, the former Paul Robeson Center, it's possible that room and harmony may be found for all three.

Borough Council has invited the applicants to Borough Hall for an 8 p.m. meeting next Monday. Mayor Robert W. Cawley said this week he hopes for an agreement by the end of the month.

Applicants are the Arts Council of Princeton, an umbrella for 15 arts organizations; the Princeton Art Association, which is one of the 15, and the Princeton Presbyterian Church, which now holds services at the Boychoir School. Mayor Cawley also reported a "letter of interest" from the Council of Community Services.

The most visible applicant is the Arts Council. On the spur of inspiration last Wednesday, Council members stood on street corners passing out invitations to an impromptu "party" at the building. Outside 102 Witherspoon — which is on the corner of Green — was a whirl-gig and paper streamers to lure you inside.

At the party, Council members obtained 60 signatures to a petition and over $1,000 in more concrete support.

"We have the first year's rent!" exulted Council president Anne Reeves.

The Art Association, with a reputed annual operating budget of $100,000, would like 58 percent of the building. Mrs. Reeves thinks the layout of 102 is such that the PAA could have exclusive space, with room to spare for other groups.

She would like to see Community House, the Princeton University project that provides academic help for children in the area, remain at 102. She hopes black groups that once used the building, would be interested in coming back.

Arts Council plans show a co-op at the left of the door, where you could buy a superb carrot cake, a hand-thrown pot, or tickets to art events. Office space is across the hall.

The big room at left rear would be for dance rehearsals, art classes, meetings; the fireplace room, for senior citizens, conferences, writing classes after school.

The "L" room at the rear, with north and south windows, would be an art studio-gallery. In the basement, there is room for presses, graphic workshops, darkroom and storage for Princeton Community Players. There is kitchen

Judge to Hear Arguments on Voting Machine in District Six; Decision May Come January 22

Does Judge Samuel Lenox have the authority to do anything other than wipe out the Borough's November garage referendum and require that it be held all over again?

Last Friday, Judge Lenox asked the three lawyers representing interested parties in that referendum, to prepare legal arguments relating to his authority, and take them to his court this Friday.

The following Friday, January 22, Judge Lenox will hear those arguments. The lawyers hope he will hand down a decision the same day.

Interested parties are the pro-garage group, Committee for the Heart of Princeton; the anti-garage group, Dollars and Sense, and the Borough of Princeton.

The nub of the problem is a detective voting machine in District Six which recorded one vote in favor of the garage and 54 votes against. The pro-garage group has already presented Judge Lenox with about 100 affidavits from District Six voters who declare that they voted in favor of the garage.

The pro-garage group will argue that Judge Lenox has the authority either to count the affidavits as votes or to order a special election in District Six only. If that special election were held, only those who voted in November could vote again.

The Borough entered the lists in late December. Because elections cost money, the Borough thinks Mercer County should pay for any special elections since it was a county voting machine that went awry.

Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley pointed out this week that there are almost no legal precedents for lawyers or judge to follow.

The Borough's attorney, Edwin Schmieder, is representing the municipality; Robert Stockton has replaced Alan Wallack, who withdrew because of the pressure of other commitments, as lawyer for the anti-garage group and James Britt represents the pro-garage committee.

OLDEST AND LARGEST WILLOW: Tree surgeon Robert Wells is dwarfed by this 200-year-old white willow tree on Harrison Street which Rutgers University has certified as the oldest and largest such tree in the state.

White Willow Tree on Harrison Street Is Listed as State's Largest and Oldest

Princetonians, who like to boast of the town's best and most, can add another to the list: on busy Harrison Street, between Hamilton and Franklin, is the state's largest and oldest white willow tree.

"Most people don't realize the tree is here — they're so busy getting to the Princeton Shopping Center," said Vladimir A. Metelsky of 143 Harrison, in front of whose house the tree stands.

The towering tree has a trunk that measures 17 feet in circumference and is more than 200 years old. Mr. Metelsky commented that he had no idea about the uniqueness of the tree until he was approached by Rutgers University, which, he says, keeps a record book of the largest trees of all species in the state.

"It's in the book," he said. "There are nuts who run around and look at these things." Mr. Metelsky stated that he has a certificate from Rutgers stating that the tree is the oldest and largest living white willow in New Jersey.

Last week, he had the Robert Wells Tree and Landscaper in Princeton trimming the tree and cutting away dead branches. "I've been here eleven years," he said, "and this is the fourth time it's having major surgery," or as Mr. Metelsky added: getting its hair cut.

He had it trimmed, he says, for safety's sake. "I always feel that a snow or ice storm could bring a branch down — and a branch of this tree equals a regular tree."

The growth of the tree is amazing, Mr. Metelsky observed. It grows quickly and will add new branches over ten feet long in one year, he stated.

He attributes its long life to two things. It is fed continuously by an underground stream that flows into Harry's Brook and because white willow is a soft wood the tree is flexible and supple. "If it were hard wood, it would have fallen long ago," he said. "The people at Rutgers," he added, "feel that it is a very healthy tree. It has many years to go."

EDRC Hearing

some. Others pointed out that leafless winter trees will reveal what summer foliage conceals.

Bowers was asked to come back February 1 with slides of other aluminum buildings and more descriptive detail.

Trees were the other major concern, with drainage close behind.

"That's a massive amount of asphalt," commented

Richard Henkel, looking at the plan's parking area. Robin Barry, Bowers architect, told him it was already an open field.

Township Engineer Walter Wheeler and new EDRC member Henry Arnold said they wanted shade over the parking area.

A canopy of trees over the black-top, if enough developers did it, could even affect the climate, Mr. Arnold remarked. Leave as many big trees as possible and in-

Rental Registration

Owners of rental property in Princeton Township are reminded that registration of every building or part thereof that is rented for human habitation or use as a dwelling as of January 1 of each year must be registered by the owner with the Township Clerk on or before February 1.

Rental registration forms are available in the Clerk's office, Valley Road Building, 369 Witherspoon Street. There is no fee for the registration.

terplant with smaller, he advised.

Ms. Murray said the property had 30 to 40 trees more than eight inches in diameter. Almost the whole site is covered with trees four to eight inches in diameter, and there are ten trees of "significant" size, she said. Bowers would like a waiver of the requirement to identify all trees, protesting that the wooded area is too large for this.

Bowers' plans call for two new retention basins. An old one — 1971 — is already there but will not be used. It was criticized roundly. Mr. Wheeler said he had yet to see any water in it. Photographs showed it unkempt. Mr. Henkel said it was a "real eyesore — it's obscene to build two more." William H. Walker II agreed.

But Bowers vice-president

Malcolm Roszel recalled neighbors of the area who pushed successfully for reduction of the floor-area ratio from 40 percent to the present 18 (Bowers will have 16.8).

"I'm worried that, if there is flooding, we'd be held responsible," Mr. Roszel said.

In the end, the EDRC asked that Bowers adhere to Shade Tree Commission recommendations about trees. The EDRC went along with the idea of fewer parking spaces, and suggested a study about possible re-juvenation of the detention basin. But the chief problem was that aluminum facade.

HOW IT WORKS:

The Guardian system employs a continuous strip of flexible, permanently magnetic material as well as maintenance free vinyl extrusion glazed with acrylic.

When it is installed on any window, it forms a double-glazed insulating system. The magnet is drawn to a color-matched steel strip (backed with adhesive) that is attached to the window frame.

This method not only cuts conductive heat loss up to 90%, but also creates a super-tight magnetic seal which eliminates cold air infiltration. Highly energy efficient, it adds up to considerable dollar savings for you.

FIRST SESSION HELD

By 1982 Committee. The "new" Township Committee, with Mayor Winthrop Pike in the Mayor's seat, held its first regular Wednesday night meeting last week in the Valley Road Building meeting room.

The agenda was light — consisting largely of housekeeping resolutions — and Mayor Pike was able to adjourn the meeting at the unprecedented hour of 10:30, thus saving Committee's strength for budget pruning sessions on Saturday mornings as well as Wednesday evenings for the next several weeks.

Before adjournment, however, Committee introduced two ordinances for public hearing on Wednesday, January 20. One authorized the appropriation of $184,500 for the development of Turning Basin Park at the foot of Alexander Street. Of this amount, $86,500 will be paid by the state in a Green Acres grant that was approved last fall.

The balance of $98,000 will be born by the Township as a capital expenditure outside the "cap" law and paid for by the issuance of bonds and notes. The annual maintenance of the park is estimated at $7,000 and will be inside the "caps."

Although Committee voted unanimously to introduce the ordinance, several members expressed reservations about adopting it formally on January 20. William Cherry is concerned about the use of the facility by West Windsor residents, since the property lies along the West Windsor border. Princeton Borough, which at one time was going to participate financially in the development of the park, withdrew its participation because of budget difficulties, leaving the Township to go it alone.

Committee also introduced an ordinance appropriating $28,900 for office furnishings — mostly in replacement of old equipment — for various Township departments, particularly the Engineering Department. That ordinance also will be up for public hearing on January 20.

Postal Station In Limbo. The Princeton Shopping Center has asked Township Committee to intervene in its efforts to reinstate a small postal station in one of the Shopping Center stores.

When the lease expired last May on the small station that was housed in Delcampe Locksmith's, postal authorities rejected Delcampe's bid for renewal, claiming that the shop was too small for a full-service station. The Procurement Services Office of the Delaware Valley District, with headquarters in Philadelphia, sent letters of solicitation around to all the Shopping Center stores and received three bids. The lowest was from Delcampe, which was again rejected.

Patricia Shuss, resident manager of the Shopping Center, questions why the two other stores, Pantaloon and Expressions, both of which have plenty of space, weren't accepted. She has written to Mayor Hall, who in turn wrote Millicent Fenwick, but the matter still seems to be stalled. "I get a lot of calls about a postal station here," Ms. Shuss says. "The community needs it and wants it."

Another matter discussed by Committee last week was the complaint by Joe Boyd that Princeton University students are preempting the parallel parking places along Alexander Road between Princeton Inn College and Faculty Road, making it difficult for employees to park near their places of business from September to June each year.

The problem has been referred to the Township Traffic Safety Committee, Police Chief Frederick Porter and a representative of the University.

MORE ON 37 WIGGINS

But No Decision. After a midnight session consumed by only one case, the Planning Board last week decided to put off until its February 3 meeting a final resolution of the 37 Wiggins Street parking lot.

Meanwhile, members of the board will visit the site. So far, only Elizabeth Hutter has done so.

Questions of drainage occupied the board and those in the audience who either favored or opposed the project. Borough engineer George Olexa reported that he was satisfied with the plans of Gerald Silvester, owner of 37 Wiggins, to build a dry well.

According to percolation tests made by Mr. Silvester's consulting engineers in the presence of a representative of the Borough health office, water will percolate back into

Palmer Square Moves?

The Twenty-Questions game, "Who's next to go, on Palmer Square?" continued this week and will undoubtedly be a long-running show.

"There's no truth to it," declared Alan Frank, owner of Langrock's, about a rumor that his lease would not be renewed by Collins. James Harvie, Collins vice-president, said he had no comment.

"We would never contemplate selling the Nass!" exclaimed Mr. Harvie, asked about a report that the Collins firm had already done so.

He explained that the Nassau Inn has always been, as he phrased it, "in two pieces:" the Nassau Inn Corporation, which holds the liquor license, and Palmer Square Associates. He said this was done last March 19, when property ownership was transferred to Collins.

Last week, Mr. Harvie confirmed reports that leases for Skirm's, Brophy's and the Princeton Music Center would not be renewed. The stores will close April 1.

About other stores, he would only say that no decisions have been made.

"... and it's not true that we're bringing in Bloomingdale's."

the soil from the dry well, Mr. Olexa said.

Mr. Silvester has built a black-topped parking area on the property to serve those living in the 37 Wiggins condominiums. He built the lot without obtaining a building permit, and appeared three times before the Environmental design Review Committee, before going to the Planning Board.

Mr. Silvester and supporting neighbors, including those who signed a petition favoring the lot, say the area has always had drainage problems. These neighbors say the additional four parking spaces are needed.

Eugene Amron, engineer retained by Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Weeks, 18 Madison, who oppose the lot, told the board there were four violations on the property: clearing the land, changing the grading, diverting a watercourse and building and enlarging the lot. He said the rate of run-off had doubled since the lot was laid down.

IF YOUR BATTERY'S GOOD

That May be Bad. "Cold weather will bring this on; the people should be alerted," cautioned Chief Frederick Porter this week, after he reported the theft of a $40 battery from the car of an employee at the Rusty Scupper Restaurant.

In the wake of the bitter cold weather, Chief Porter said that the only thing police had to report were a lot of disabled cars all over town with batteries down. "If you've got a weak battery, you aren't going anywhere," he said. "It's a golden opportunity for thieves."

His counterpart, Borough Chief Michael Carnevale, reported the theft of a $60 battery from a Princeton resident's car which had been parked all day Monday on University Place near the Dinky railway station.

As for effects of the cold weather, he reported police received only two calls, both involving frozen pipes in homes.

In other thefts in the Township, $200 in cash was removed sometime during the weekend from a safe at the Riverside School, where a check by Ptl. John Seeley of the safe and office revealed no sign of forced entry; and an $800, 18-karat gold pocket watch was reported missing Sunday from an upstairs bedroom of a Snowdon Lane home. The victim told police that nothing else was disturbed and there was no evidence of a forced entry.

Frick Lah on the university campus, the site of several thefts in the past, was visited again. This time, a university student reported the theft of a $128 cassette tape player and an $8 tape from an unlocked room in the lab.

A Hopewell resident listed the theft last week of her two jackets from the desk area in the Y Building. One was a ruaser's yellow rain jacket, the other a heavy red nylon jacket. Total value: $85.

There were two pocketbook thefts. One was taken Sunday night from inside a church near the high school while a choir function was in progress. The victim, a Princeton resident, lost $20 and credit cards. The pocketbook was later found on the PHS grounds.

A South Brunswick resident reported the theft of her pocketbook Saturday evening at the Hudibras Restaurant on Nassau Street. She told police that she had left it on a table for an hour while she was on the dance floor. She lost $15.

Later, her house and car keys, a checkbook and what was left of her pocketbook, police said, were found in the nearby Tulane street parking lot.

A three-speed woman's bicycle, which police described as an older model in poor condition, was stolen Saturday morning from the rack in front of the Public Library.

It was not locked and is valued at $50 or less, police said. The owner is a Princeton resident.

INN DESTROYED

By Fire Last Week. Historic Princetownville inn on the Princeton Pike was destroyed by fire last week.

Only a small section and two large chimneys of the 172-year old national landmark, which had been used as an overnight stop on the stage line between Philadelphia and New York were left standing. The fire came less than two weeks after Lawrence Township officials had leased the decaying inn to a pair of investors who had plans to renovate it and convert it into a restaurant and bar.

When firemen from Lawrenceville and Lawrence Road fire companies arrived on the scene, flames were reaching from the floor and through the roof of the disintegrating two and one-half story building. Although the 40 firefighters on the scene were able to bring the fire under control in about 20 minutes, more than half of the Inn had collapsed into a pile of smoldering rubble. The fire had been reported at 4:15 Wednesday morning by the driver of a newspaper truck.

LANDMARK NO LONGER: Just a small section of the historic Princetownville Inn on Princeton Pike remains after fire destroyed the 172-year-old landmark early last Wednesday morning. An electric stove on the second floor may have caused the blaze. (Story this page)

Mercer County Assistant Fire Marshal Joseph Lenhardt said later that the fire appeared to be accidental. It is believed by investigators to have started in an electric stove located in an old kitchen area on the second floor on the northern side of the inn. A live, 240-volt wire ran into the stove, Lenhardt said.

Although arson is not suspected, its possibility has not been ruled out and Lawrenceville Fire Chief Richard Hocking reported that some materials found in the blaze have been sent to state police labs for analysis. Electricity to the vacant building had been turned on, he said.

Constructed in 1800, the Inn had also served as a tavern, a ballroom and a meeting place for township officials. In recent years, after the building had become abandoned, it was a frequent target of vandals. Because the Inn was engulfed in flames when firemen arrived, it could not be determined if a force entry had been made prior to the blaze.

In the latter part of December, Lawrence Township, the landowner, had signed a 99-year lease with William Brody and John Gilligan, who announced plans to lease the building and 3.4 acres, after five months of negotiation with Lawrence Council.

The two investors said that they planned to spend some $300,000 to renovate the Inn into a 200-seat restaurant, while maintaining its historical integrity. Work was to have started soon.

The Township, under terms of the lease, was to receive $12,000 in annual rent plus five percent of gross receipts over $150,000 and six percent over $1 million.

Lawrence officials have asked state historical officers to inspect the 15 by 30-foot section of the Inn that is still standing and determine if it has any historical value. If not, the remains will probably be demolished, said Robert Weinstein, Lawrence's acting municipal manager.

| 2 large APPLES from TERHUNE ORCHARDS, peeled, cored, finely chopped | 1/4 teaspoon rosemary                   |
| 1/4 cup butter  | pinch nutmeg                            |
| 2 tablespoons flour   | pepper to taste                         |
| 7 cups chicken or turkey stock                                      | 1 cup APPLE CIDER from TERHUNE ORCHARDS |
| 4 cups peeled, diced, butternut squash                              | 1/2 cup light cream                     |
| 1 teaspoon thyme  | 1 cup grated cheese                     |

In a large kettle saute until tender, chopped leeks, chopped onion, chopped celery, and chopped APPLES in 1/4 cup of butter. Stir in the flour and cook a few more minutes while stirring constantly. Add the chicken or turkey stock, butternut squash, and spices. Cook until tender. Simmer and stir 5 minutes. Add CIDER and cream and heat through. Remove from heat, stir in the cheese and garnish with croutons if you wish. This soup is full-bodied and delicious. If you would like it to be smooth, you could put it through a blender before you put in the cider and cream.

Your Borough Taxes

While the Borough budget is still fluid and before it has jelled, you're invited to tell Mayor and Council exactly how you'd like to see it jell.

A public forum will be held in Borough Hall this Sunday at 3:30 p.m. Mayor Robert W. Cawley said this week that he expects supporters of the public library, senior citizen projects and the like, to be out in full cry. In past years, citizens who would like to see more money added to their special projects, have often outnumbered people who want the budget cut and taxes held down.

Sunday's meeting was deliberately scheduled, by the way, to fall between the two big Football Sundays. No excuse to stay away.

Prospect Avenue, was arrested and charged with trespassing last week in the Princeton Inn Dorm.

Sweeney was arrested by Township police at 11:20 Sunday night, after he was seen in the dormitory and after he had been previously warned by Princeton University authorities not to trespass on university property. He was later released, pending his appearance Tuesday in Township court.

TWO ARE CHARGED

With Assault. Princeton police last week charged two men with assault in separate incidents.

Daniel E. Fritz, 20, of Honesdale, Pa. was charged by Det. William Clark, after a Township resident observed him, in a group of five, vandalizing a car parked in a lot off Olden Street.

According to police, the group had attended a Princeton University basketball game and were in the lot when a 46-year-old pedestrian passing by heard a noise and saw a car being vandalized. When he attempted to identify the one responsible, police said, he was punched in the face.

He was taken to the emergency room at Princeton Medical Center where he received 10 sutures. Because the victim was able to get a license number of the suspects' car, Det. Clark and Ptl. Chris Boutote were able to follow up the investigation. As a result, Fritz was later arrested and charged. He was released, pending his appearance in Borough court.

set aside, and Borough Council was scheduled to introduce the required bond ordinance this Tuesday. Most of the additional amount will be used for a traffic study, Mayor Robert W. Cawley said.

The Borough is only the banker for Township, Borough and Princeton University, and will not have to pay the whole amount. Under an agreement reached among the three parties, the University will pay the first $5,000 of the consultant's fee and one-half of any additional expenses but no more than $25,000. Borough and Township will divide the rest, fifty-fifty.

So far, consultant J. Robert Hillier has put in about $16,000 worth of time, but he has not yet submitted a bill. He has already presented several development ideas and will, in the future, provide data which will be the basis for new zoning ordinances. He will also suggest specifications to guide the developers that are finally chosen.

DRUG CHARGES LODGED

Against Levittown Driver. A Levittown, Pa. driver, Todd Greenbaum, 27, was charged with possession of cocaine and marijuana, after police had stopped his car Friday night on Vandeventer Avenue for a motor vehicle violation.

When Ptl. Randy Sutton and Ptl. Mark Stillitano stopped Greenbaum's car for a defective tail light and asked to see his license and registration, Greenbaum allegedly told them they would soon be arresting him because he was driving while on a revoked list.

According to the officers, as Greenbaum was standing outside his car, a container fell to the ground. It contained two small plastic bags with white powder, believed to be cocaine, and a razor blade. The officer also allegedly found another bag believed to contain marijuana. Greenbaum was later released in $125 bail.

Twenty-three-year-old Charles D. Houston, 359 Walnut Lane, has been charged with possession of less than 25 grams of marijuana.

Houston was in Borough court last Wednesday where he was sentenced to 20 days in the Mercer County workhouse for a prior assault charge. After sentencing and while in custody of the police for processing, Houston allegedly attempted to conceal a bag of marijuana during a search. He was charged and faces a March 17 hearing here in court.

Larry L. Lopez, 28, 65 Leigh Avenue, has been charged with assault and battery and resisting arrest.

He was arrested late Sunday afternoon, after Sgt. Michael Kopliner, Ptl. John Clausen and Ptl. Robert Buchanan responded to a call of a fight in progress at 65 Leigh Avenue.

When the officers arrived, Lopez allegedly shoved the officers. After being placed under arrest, he began to shout obscenities and had to be subdued. Held in $1,000 bail before being released, Lopez is scheduled to appear in Township Court January 19.

TAPE MACHINES STOLEN

From WCC Office. A tape deck, cassette deck and cassette radio with a combined value of $1,160 were stolen last week from an office in the library at Westminster Choir College. Police report that a pane of glass in a door was broken to enter the office.

A high-speed machine was stolen last week from a locked janitor's closet in the Engineering Quadrangle on Olden Street. It is valued at $800.

Borough police also report the theft of a $500 television set between noon and 11:30 Sunday night from the health club at the Princeton Y. It is not known how the entry was gained.

Two refrigerators and a tool box valued at $300 were stolen sometime during the weekend from a community recreation building serving the Reddie Circle apartments. According to Township police, a front window was forced between 7 Friday night and 8 Monday morning to enter the building. Sgt. John Hammond investigated.

SANDER AS HEAD

Of Planning Board. Hans K. Sander was elected chairman of the Princeton Regional Planning Board at the board's re-organization meeting last week. Elizabeth Hutter was named vice-chairman.

TODAY'S MOST DESIRABLE ACCOUNT BECOMES TODAY'S MOST ACQUIRABLE ACCOUNT FOR EVERYBODY!

Thanks to a great new tax-break—today's liberalized Individual Retirement Account (IRA)—you can deposit up to $2,000 a year ($4,000 if you and your spouse both work or $2,250 for yourself and a non-working spouse) in a tax-deferred IRA account—and simply deduct it from your income when you pay your taxes.

Your interest is tax-deferred, too. You pay no income tax on it until you start withdrawing (age 59½ or more) from your account—probably when you retire and are in a lower tax bracket.

Whether you're on a payroll or self-employed—even if you're covered by a pension plan where you work—you can take advantage of this big tax-break...and New Jersey National offers you your choice of interest rates:

1. Floating Rate Certificates

- Maturity: 18 months
- Rate: adjustable monthly, based on current discount rate on 90-day Treasury Bills
- Minimum Deposit: $100 initial deposit, with additional deposits permitted in $50 multiples
- Quarterly statement of balance and accumulated interest

- Renewable at maturity, if available

You decide for yourself whether you want an interest rate that keeps pace with money market rates—or a set rate established when you buy your certificate.

Either way, you get the advantage of New Jersey National's competitive rates—the kind of rates you'd expect from a bank that's

2. Fixed Rate Certificates

"YOU!" "WHO, ME?" Two Shoestring Players make charges and counter charges, but who knows the script? The on-lookers seem to, at any rate. The four stories in "Folksies IV"—new to Princeton audiences—will be given this Saturday at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. in McCarter. The stories are from the cultures of Laos, Sicily, Estonian and France.

News Of The THEATRES

WORK IN PROGRESS

"Overland Rooms." You may remember seeing "The Overland Rooms" in a script-in-hand staged reading, as part of the Playwrights-at-McCarter series.

Now it's reached Stage Two, McCarter's annual production of a new play, and you'll be able to see it where it is today: half-way between a staged reading and a full-scale production on the main stage. In fact, audience comment will be invited.

Professional actors will perform "The Overland Rooms" in The Acting Studio, 185 Nassau. Previews will be next Tuesday and Wednesday, and "The Overland Rooms" will have a formal opening next Thursday, January 21. It will play through January 31, with an 8 p.m. curtain each night.

Richard Hobson, the playwright, will perform his own music in the course of the action, along with guitarist Bob Jewitt and vocalist Silvia Flomenhaft. The play, directed by Robert Lancaster, uses cross-cutting of scenes and a guitar-vocal accompaniment to tie together the fantasy worlds of its four characters.

Greg Thornton, whom McCarter audiences will remember from "A Christmas Carol," will play the part of Howard, a young man who lives out his bizarre and humorous fantasies in a one-room, walk-up whorehouse in the Pacific Northwest in the 1960's.

Anne Sheldon, Princeton resident who has performed often in regional theatre and on television, will play Granada, his mother and proprietor of the whorehouse. Susan Jordan, a new actress at McCarter, will play Baby, the new working girl who is drawn into the fantasy world of Granada and Howard. Princeton actor Karl Light will play Sawdust Kelly, described by McCarter as "an old-timer whose appearance shakes more than one fantasy world."

Productions of Stage Two are made possible by a grant from the Geraldine R. Dodge Foundation.

News of the Theatres

'KEYSTONE'

In Friday Opening. How to preserve the light-hearted spirit of silent films in a stage musical?

McCarter says that the new musical, "Keystone"—due to open this Friday at the theatre—uses imaginative theatre techniques to preserve this spirit.

"Yet the show is first and foremost a stage musical," says McCarter, "which recreates silent film conventions on its own terms."

Choreography and lighting will turn the stage into an illusion of a movie screen. The ragtime score includes a production number devoted to reminding audiences that actors themselves often filmed scenes with musical accompaniments "to set the mood." Another ensemble number shows Charlie Chaplin as the authors imagine he might have created his character of the Little Tramp.

Mack Sennett, who started the Keystone studios with $100 and a rented camera, will be played by John Sloman. Randi Graff will be the silent star Mabel Normand. Other actors will portray Fatty Arbuckle, Ben Turpin and Chaplin himself.

AUDITION!

For "Pinocchio." Open auditions for anyone 14 years of age or older, will be held next Wednesday and Thursday, January 20 and 21, for the Mercer Children's Theatre production of "Pinocchio." Auditions are scheduled for 7 to 9 p.m. on each night. They will be held in Kelsey Theatre on the West Windsor campus of Mercer County Community College.

"The Thistles," a new play by Edward Kramer has been selected for the next playreading session of Princeton Community Players.

The Playreading Series will continue this Sunday at 4 at the PCP Playhouse, 171 Broadmead. A general membership meeting will be held at 3:45 for all Players members.

You need not prepare ahead of time for the audition. You will be given scenes from the script to prepare and give, improvisations to explore and a brief, familiar song to sing.

For those who are chosen, rehearsals will be held from 7 to 10 p.m. on a schedule to be announced. Performances will be given February 12, 13 and 14.

compassing all areas of the vocal repertoire - opera, symphony, lieder and oratorio.

Mr. Milnes was born on a midwest farm in Downers Grove, Ill. and graduated from Drake University in Iowa with top honors in all subjects. His debut in a large opera house took place in 1961 when he played Charles Gerard in "Andrea Chenier," with Rosa Ponselle's Baltimore Civic Opera. In December, 1965, he made his debut at the Metropolitan Opera in "Faust," followed by highly acclaimed performances in such operas as "Pique Dame," "Fidelio," "Aida," "Andrea Chenier," "Un Ballo in Maschera" and "Don Giovanni."

For his program in Princeton, Mr. Milnes will sing some 18th-Century arias, a group of songs by Richard Strauss, French songs by Henri Duparc, 20th-Century English songs and two arias from Don Carlo by Giuseppe Verdi.

Tickets are available at the McCarter Theatre Box Office, 921-8700.

Sponsored by the Friends of Music, the concert is free.

For their program they will perform: Leslie Mann: Five Bagatelles; Alban Berg: Vier Stucke, Opus 5 (1913); J.S. Bach: Sonata in D Major; Bruce McComrie: Three Designs for Three Players and

METROPOLITAN OPERA STAR Sherrill Milnes, baritone, will appear at McCarter Theatre on Tuesday, January 28, at 8 in the Virtuosi in Recital Series of the Princeton University Concerts.

Johannes Brahms: Sonata in E-flat Major, Opus 120, No. 2.

Marcella Branagan received an MFA in piano performance from SUNY at Buffalo and did special study in chamber music in West Germany. While in Europe she performed throughout Germany, Austria and Holland with the American flutist, Sora Miranda Vargas. As a part of this duo, she received a silver medal at the 1972 Morle Conals International Music Competition held in Barcelona. Ms. Branagan is currently involved in private teaching and freelance work.

Cynthia Gesele did her undergraduate work at the University of Minnesota where she received a BA in Music History and Performance. Her clarinet study during these years was with Cloyde Williams and Rubin Haugin. Spending a summer at Tanglewood, Ms. Gesele continued her clarinet studies with Pasquale Cardillo. Presently, she is a graduate student in music at Princeton where she coaches with Arturo Ciampi.

Joan Couliette Thompson received her AB from the University of Alabama and her MA from the Eastman School of Music where she studied with Gabor Rejto. She is currently a member of the Trenton Symphony, and the Little Orchestra of Princeton and is on the faculty of Trenton State College.

3 PERFORMANCES SET

Of Menotti's "Amahl." The Trinity-All Saints' Concert Series will present Gian Carlo Menotti's "Amahl and the Night Visitors" from Thursday through Saturday, at 8:30 in the Trinity Church, 33 Mercer Street.

"Amahl and the Night Visitors" is the story of a poor crippled boy and his mother who are visited by the three kings on their way to Bethlehem. The opera, for years an American Christmas favorite, was commissioned by NBC in 1951 and appeared for the first time on live television that December.

Menotti himself was lame as a young child and was miraculously cured after a trip with his governess, a woman of great faith, to a church high in the Lugano mountains, the Madonna del Monte. That, coupled with the Italian tradition that it is the Kings who bring Christmas gifts to the children, provided Menotti with his inspiration.

Several area singers are rehearsing the opera, under the musical direction of James Litton.

Greg Clark and Keith Watlington have been cast as two Amahls. Both boys are members of the Trinity Choir of Men, Boys and Girls. Each has found a crutch of his own, and under the direction of Harry Clark, they have been working hard to master the difficulties of playing a lame child while singing Menotti's poignant music.

Greg, who is 10 years old, has been singing with the Choir since 1978. He was the youngest member of the Choir to go on the Cathedral's '80 European Tour, and appeared in Princeton Ballet's "Nutcracker" for two years, as well as in McCarter's "Christmas Carol." He is a fifth grader at Community Park School where he is a member of the Student Advisory Council and the newly formed stage crew.

Keith, a seventh grader at Crossroads Middle School, studies the trumpet and played the Cheshire Cat in "Alice in Wonderland" and the lead in "Robin Hood."

Anne Ackley, of Rocky Hill, will sing the leading role of the mother. Ms. Ackley, a soloist with the All Saints' Choir, appeared as a soloist with the Trinity Choir of Men, Boys and Girls in Haydn's "Creation" at Alexander Hall in 1980, and has sung with the San Francisco Opera, the San Francisco Symphony Chorus and the Schola Cantorum in New York.

Ms. Ackley, who is appearing as Amahl's mother for the first time, has sung Agathe in Weber's "Der Freischuetz" and Donna Elvira in Mozart's "Don Giovanni" with the Princeton University Opera. Others appearing include David Perkins as Melchior, Robert Moncrief as Caspar, Lawrence Speakman as Balthazar and Eberhardt Froehlich as the Page.

Tickets for the production, which includes a 30-member chorus and a 20 piece orchestra, may be obtained at Trinity Church or All Saints' Church, or as available, at the door. A donation of $4 for adults or $3 for students will be requested.

AUDITIONS PLANNED

For Aria Soloists. The Princeton Pro Musica has scheduled open auditions for aria soloists for its March 14 performance of the St. Matthew Passion by Johann Sebastian Bach.

The auditions will be held at the War Memorial Auditorium in Trenton on Wednesday evening, January 20. Singers should prepare an aria from the St. Matthew Passion. For an appointment, call 883-1890.

FLUTE AND ORGAN

Recital Planned. Flutist Jayne Elfret and organist Bruce Edgerton Dersch of the Hun School faculty will present a recital in the school auditorium on Sunday at 7:30. The performance will be free of charge and open to the public.

Selections for flute and organ will include: "Flute Sonata No. 5 in F Major" by G.F. Handel, "Arioso" from an anthology of poetry, "Glowchild," and was featured in the television special, "Roots: The Next Generation."

In addition, Miss Elfret will present a flute solo, "Flute at Dusk" by Harold Bennett and Mr. Dersch will offer three organ solos: "Hernando's Hide Away" from "The Pajama Game" by Adler and Ross, "Stranger in Paradise" from "Kismet" by Alexander Borodin and "Toccata and Fugue in D Minor" by J.S. Bach.

A member of the Hun School faculty since 1977 and director of the music program, Mr. Dersch teaches vocal and general music and serves as the school organist. He has also been director of music at the Princeton Baptist Church of Penns Neck since 1978. Miss Elfret joined the Hun faculty in the fall of 1981 and teaches instrumental music in the middle and upper schools.

...FOR THE DEAF

But Spoken, Too. Audiences who see the National Theatre of the Deaf performances for the first time are surprised at how easy it is to follow the action, when speaking and "signing" are done simultaneously. "Signing" is American Sign Language for those whose hearing is impaired.

Audiences, therefore, see a play in which every word they hear, is also seen. It will be that way when "Gilgamesh," the 29th major production of the National Theatre of the Deaf, comes to McCarter Theatre for a single performance Tuesday, February 2 at 8 p.m.

"Gilgamesh," composed 1,500 years before Homer, presents gods and demi-gods as lusty and colorful as those in Greek mythology. There is an account of a Great Flood, almost exactly like the account in the Old Testament, and there are the timeless themes of love, friendship, loyalty and loss.

The International Red Cross has been sending medical supplies from Geneva, Switzerland, to Poland for the Polish Red Cross. One of the shipments was reported to be worth about $50,000 to help purchase badly needed supplies such as antibiotics and other items. The Polish government apparently lacks the hard currency to buy such items to keep really sick people from dying.

Donations may be made out to American Red Cross-Polish Relief Fund and sent to the Princeton Area Chapter, 182 North Harrison Street. All contributions are tax deductible. For further information, call Robert B. Ennis, executive director, 924-2404.

TWO ARE HONORED

By Medical Center. Tim Megargle of The Engineering Department at the Merwick Unit of The Medical Center at Princeton for the past three years, and Walter Hendricks, a night orderly at the Hospital Unit for the past 15 years, were co-recipients of the Belford Award at the Center's annual buffet.

The Belford Award is presented annually to the employee exemplifying the spirit of Dr. Ralph Belford who served the community and hospital for more than 30 years. Initiated by a former employer in tribute to Dr. Belford, the award is presented to the individual who demonstrates a serious concern for his fellow man.

CABARET PLANNED

At Chapin School. The second in a series of celebrations for Chapin School's 50th birthday will be a "Gala Benefit Dinner and Cabaret" on Saturday at 6:30 at the school.

The auditorium will be transformed into a white and gold banquet hall, and the evening will feature a French dinner, catered by Marcie Citron's "Creative Cuisine," a revue of Broadway show tunes and music for dancing.

The committee, chaired by Patricia Boardman, includes Barbara Maguire, Patricia Doggett, Murjham Daya, Joan Hagen, and Laura Hovsepian. Frances Posnock is in charge of reservations; Mrs. Citron, food; Phoebe Billman, Colleen Arno, and Margaret Coe, decorations; James Maguire, cash bar; Jamie Coe and Valerie Gasiorowski, flower arrangements; and Elizabeth Robinson, publicity. The invitations featured a sketch of the school which was drawn by Rob Hovsepian, '79.

The cabaret, "Broadway Melodies 1931-81," will include songs and dances performed by Chapin teachers, parents, and friends. Nora Greenblatt will provide the music; Nancy Becker's artistic designs will appear on the backdrop; and

LET'S TALK ABOUT

WINTER WARNING: TREES NEED A SALT-FREE DIET!!

with Sam De Turo
Woodwinds Associates

The main reason for the long lines at car-washes this week should give a clue to just one more cold-weather danger: salt!! Trees don't like it any more than car finishes do.

If you're using salt to melt ice on your sidewalks and driveways, don't! Common salt (or calcium chloride) seeps into the soil and does severe damage to trees and shrubs. Next spring, leaves will appear as though scorched and will lack luster and healthy green color. Evergreens will appear brown and will have lost many of their needles.

WOODWINDS recommends using fireplace ashes to melt ice, or sand alone, or even leftover lawn fertilizer granules. Wood ashes would be our first choice, though, since not only do they do no harm, they also provide some side benefits. Wood ashes contain approximately 32% calcium, 5% potash, and 3% phosphoric acid, along with trace elements necessary for plant growth; they are therefore a natural for mixing into your garden soil next spring, as well as de-icing your walk now! Be sure to store your ashes in a dry place until you're ready to use them.

Something else to keep in mind this month: broad-leaf evergreens take a terrific beating in this icy, dry weather we're currently suffering. If you didn't apply a WinterProof spray early in December, watch closely for a few thaw days (above 40°) later this month and spray your Rhododendron, Azalea, Andromeda, Holly, etc., to avoid as much damage as possible if we experience any more icy, dry conditions throughout the remainder of the winter season.

WOODWINDS is always happy to answer your questions on the care and maintenance of your trees and shrubs...please call us at 924-3500.

ABRACADABRA: It may only be a stuffed rabbit Michael Prospero, 4, is producing from a hat for his sister Christina, 1, but the real magician for this Saturday's magic show at University League Nursery School, 151 Broadmead, will feature a live rabbit and bird in his act, with audience participation. The show starts at 1:30 and admission of $2, payable at the door, will be used for the school's scholarship fund. Refreshments will be served.

equipment already but it is old. A theatre is upstairs.

The New Jersey Council on the Arts thinks it would be easier for all Arts Council components to get funding if they had the "statement" of the building and the interlocking projects going on inside, Mrs. Reeves reports.

The Council submitted to the Borough a budget of $36,980. Rent has not yet been determined, but it is estimated at $10,000; a full-time manager, $9,100; a janitor, $3,900. Revenues would be derived from rent charged to those using the building, at an average rental of $10 per hour per room, for $21,000 a year. There would be a $6,000 Artists' Co-op rental fee, $2,000 from special events, $5,730 from fund-raising, and soon.

"The Arts Council has been managing community arts activities since 1967," the proposal states. "Many have been large-scale, complicated undertakings." (The Council puts on the annual Art People Party.) "We believe the management of a community arts center is a logical next step for our group and we are fully confident that we are capable of taking on this responsibility."

—Katharine H. Bretnall

ANHUI SCHOOL: Intricate brushwork and soft tonal areas characterize the 17th century paintings from the Anhui school on display at the Princeton University Art Museum.

ART In Princeton

CHINESE ART ON VIEW
Anhui School at Art Museum. Because of its more formal nature the painting of China and Japan makes demands upon the viewer that are in sharp contrast with those experienced in Western art. In order to discover the expressive variety and individual richness that exists within an apparently mannered structure, Far Eastern painting must be studied very carefully and, often, examined closely.

An entire vocabulary of mannered brushwork, stylized forms and techniques that have been in use for centuries create a formal overlay that must be penetrated in order to experience the wider aesthetic effect that exists beyond the structured framework of style.

The creative energy and individuality that exists within the formal vocabulary employed by the Far Eastern artists is easily seen in the display, Shadows of Mt. Huang: Chinese Painting and Printing of the Anhui School, that is on exhibit at the Princeton University Art Museum.

In this collection of scrolls, inkblocks, pages from albums, prints and fans we are presented with imagery that occasionally verges on the abstract, often employs techniques thought to be associated with more free-flowing contemporary art and frequently uses materials in an unusual and dramatic manner.

The Anhui School flourished in 17th-century China after the fall of the Ming Dynasty. Its center was the mountainous region that straddles the Yangtse River. Its unusual topography made it an especially interesting area for artists.

Steep mountain peaks, punctuated by pattern created by dragon pines and broken by the complex geometry of rocky surfaces, reach through masses of clouds to create intricate compositions that have kept Anhui painters occupied for centuries.

The sense of graphic energy in this collection is not characteristic of Oriental painting. Much of it originates in the nature of the subject, but is expanded by the character of the brushwork and line. Unlike the tranquil, horizontal forms frequently found in brush painting, vertical movement, and an often active arrangement of space and pattern characterize much of the display.

An unusual application of ink also shapes the nature of these paintings. Loose brushwork, dry, crumbly lines and charcoal-like tonal areas were characteristic of the Anhui school. These techniques were used to create soft tonalities, even in line, that are in sharp contrast to the precise calligraphy and seemingly controlled washes usually seen in this kind of art.

Unlike these other styles, the Anhui paintings often convey a sense of mass rather than of linear form. Negative space has been used to develop volume and movement. Many of the compositions are more completely resolved than we would expect in brush painting, and, in many of the scrolls, the entire area is developed with active imagery.

Our concept of the Anhui School is expanded by the inclusion of a group of more recent paintings. In these we are able to see the same subject from a later artistic point of view. Here, fragmented lines abstract the mountains and the trees while they maintain some of the character of the earlier works. The affects of the two different periods combine to create a stronger sense of the nature of the subject, and make us more conscious of the excitement created by the technical variety and the various interpretations of dramatic themes that mark the work of the Anhui painters.

Also at the Museum. The artistic goals of the photographer have become so diverse that it is a surprise to come upon a small, often pleasing collection of photographs that are, essentially, just pictures. Work by Elliot Erwitt, Garry Winogrand and Robert Doisneau capture sometimes entertaining, sometimes thoughtful, views of people and the occasional place. The most amusing are the visual jokes and puns found in Doisneau's glimpses of an art lover, a flea market shopper and a few others caught at an unlikely moment in their day. Erwitt's photographs, too, are often entertaining but somewhat useful in that they address the human situation in a broader manner.

Work on the new exhibition is not over yet. The artist's camp is set for a variety of events to capture moments that might otherwise be unremarked.

At McCarter Theatre, Variety in style, medium and technique characterize the Invitational Exhibition of the Princeton Art Association. Almost every artistic extreme, from the photoreal to examinations of surface, color and texture, is included. There are also a fair number of more moderately conceived works that fall between the two extremes.

This is, essentially, a competent collection with some very fine work. An extremely wide variety of materials are included. Paint, drawing and print media are used in many different ways, as are more innovative substances.

The most interesting aspect of this collection is the juxtaposition of the very real and the interpretive. The show is mounted in a manner that permits a study of contrast as well as content, making it more interesting than it might otherwise be.

WINTER CLASSES

At Art Association, Daytime, evening and weekend classes will start Monday in the winter session of the Princeton Art Association.

Elizabeth Ruggles, who emphasizes techniques through slide talks, critiques and demonstrations, will teach Painting with Oils and Acrylics (Monday and Wednesday mornings). Lee Harr, portraitist, demonstrates the traditional approach in Monday afternoon Portrait Drawing.

Jacques Fabert, who has taught at the San Francisco Academy of Art, will teach Figure Drawing Monday evenings and Thursday afternoons. He emphasizes all media, sketching in color and making color compositions.

Basic Painting (Tuesday mornings) is designed by Deborah Kohn to stimulate individual ability. Her Drawing class (Tuesday afternoons) introduces the basics. Joanne Augustine (Tuesday afternoons) offers Adventures in Watercolor, for students who have had some experience. She will introduce innovative techniques and styles.

Drawing on the Right Side of the Brain (Tuesday evenings) uses the text of the same name. Teacher Mary Yess has designed the course for "absolute beginners."

Wednesday mornings, Linda Lombardi will teach an introduction to watercolor. (The class is also offered Thursday evenings.) Wednesday afternoons, Judi Niemann will teach a new class in Drawing with Pen and Ink. Wednesday evenings, Frederic Scudder will teach Basic Painting in both oil and acrylic.

Thursday evenings, John Carbone will teach the basics of three-dimensional design in his Sculpture course. Beginners and continuing students alike, are invited to enroll. A new class Thursday evenings, also taught by Mr. Scudder, will be concerned with Painting in the Abstract.

Friday mornings, Mr. Scudder will teach Oil and Acrylic Painting. Friday afternoons, Joanne Augustine will offer Painting for Senior Adults, a course described as "non-competitive." Individual instruction will be offered and Acrylic Watercolor and medium are also taught.

Saturday mornings, the Art Association will offer a variety of classes for children and adults.

Painting on Sunday from 10 to 4 p.m. is the only class in the P.A.A. of Princeton tailored for people with no experience whatsoever in painting.

Three Life Workshops for artists who want to work with a model, will be offered Tuesday and Friday evenings and Sunday mornings. There will be no formal teaching or criticism.

For children, Eva Kaplan will present Adventures in Creativity on Monday afternoons and Environmental Design on Saturday afternoons.

Workshops in special techniques, for which no membership or registration fee is required, will be offered in Lithography (Marie Sturken), Printmaking (Jane Eccles) and Graphic Design (Linda Sullivan of Minute Press).

The latter will be divided into basics Thursday mornings and advanced Wednesday evenings. The Wednesday class will offer a variety of techniques.

For the three children's classes, no fee is charged.

Elizabeth Monaghan, no longer at the New Jersey State Museum, will teach Collagraphic Printmaking Thursday mornings and evenings.

Pottery, taught by Lucy Scanlon, is being offered in conjunction with Mercer County Community College. Information on all courses is available from the PAA, 921-9173.

Continuity Needed.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
Having lived in Princeton only since 1948, I do not qualify as a "native Princetonian" (but a loyal one).

Having never bought any tobacco from Skirms, shoes from Brophy's, or music from the Music Center, I cannot plead for them as filling my needs.

However, I feel about their being dispossessed from long-held locations, as I do about a statement from "Presbyterian Outlook" — (even though I am not one of them):

"As the sanity of the individual lies in the continuity of his memories, so the sanity of a group lies in the continuity of its traditions" (Will Durant) — by extension to the continuity of people, places, even stores.

Music Center Fans.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

We are long-time customers of the Music Center, the only record shop in Palmer Square, and are dismayed by the news that its lease is being terminated by Collins Development.

Our interest has been primarily in classical and modern music and we have always admired Mr. Socholtzky's judgment in making available, within a small space, an excellent selection of records. Being highly knowledgeable in music himself, he was often able to offer useful advice.

A fine record store with personal service is precisely the kind of business Princeton needs. We can only hope that an effort will be made by Collins Development to find a new home for the Music Center within Palmer Square.

Collins' Plans Criticized.

disruptions of Palmer Square.

The latest is the autocratic ouster of three of Princeton's old-established businesses — Skirm's, Brophy's and the Music Shop — without any consideration for either customers or shopkeepers. Evidently the sheeplike herd of Princetonians is to be manipulated by clever Collins to fit some ideal of merchandising.

This kind of arrogance by an outsider surely can't be good for business. It's certainly bad for the town as a whole and the fragile economy of its business section.

Robeson Rental Endorsed.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

It is unfortunate that the Paul Robeson Center had to close, but the Arts Council of Princeton has advised me that they are very interested in using the building.

A tour of the Facility (with the Art's Council projects in mind) really demonstrated that this now wasted building could be put to excellent use. Consequently I am writing to heartily endorse the rental of the Paul Robeson Center to the Arts Council of Princeton.

Firestone Library Closing.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

As you know, the University is currently considering closing its library to members of the community unless they pay a substantial fee. I think it is important for Princeton residents to be aware of these developments as they are directly involved in the outcome.

Following is my reaction to the proposals sent to Donald W. Koeppe, University Librarian. I hope other members of the community share it strongly enough to make themselves heard.

I write to express my dismay at the drastic measures you are proposing purportedly to solve Firestone's theft and space problems. I have for years heard grumbling about the library's loss of books and have waited for a reasonable solution to be discovered. However, the solution currently under consideration is not only irrational, it is genuinely horrific in its implications.

I have been a Princeton resident for ten years, first as a student and then an alumna of the university. In both respects, the library has been an invaluable resource for me as it is to the community. The thought that I shall not even be allowed inside the door to use the card catalogue or an encyclopedia without payment of a substantial fee I find extremely upsetting. I am especially astounded because the solution proposed is out of all proportion to what is necessary to stop theft and because it results in yet another resource being put beyond the reach of most people of moderate and low incomes.

It escapes me why more reasonable alternatives cannot be undertaken, to wit, reliable door checks and/or metal brackets inside books that can be detected by metal detectors at exits. As chits are currently being put in books to allow computerized circulation, an additional chit seems appropriate. As regards the problem that currently enrolled students can find no space, other libraries have found good solutions in being open to the public only certain hours of the day when most students are likely to be in class.

I am amused by the assumption that book theft is attributable to the public at large. As a student at Princeton for five years, I know only too well who ends up with book collections and nice prints razored out of art books from Firestone — and it was certainly not the anonymous public in my day. I know too many ex-students with furniture from university buildings and books from the library still in their possession. And as an employee of the U-Store for several years, I refused to buy back library books presented to me as texts by then-enrolled students.

I am also bewildered and disappointed that members of an academic institution could willfully deny their own raison d'être — conveying knowledge and understanding and promoting education — to the members of this community. I am sure there are many non-university residents such as myself who in their professional capacities do research and, at a minimum, need access to the library to compile bibliographies.

This can in no way be done via the resources of a public library, nor can thorough research. I also find it ironic that a library administration that has for years left rare books which are priceless and irreplaceable on open shelves should now find draconian measures necessary to safeguard the contents of the library.

I urge you to reconsider forbidding use of the library to all those who need it infrequently enough so that $200 is not justified and to all those who simply cannot afford this sum. Why is it so impossible to have users register and to install an effective exit system? Surely some solution can be found to the real problem of theft that falls short of a total lock-out.

I understand that Firestone is not a public library; however, it is one of Princeton's most vital resources and to restrict its use so completely cannot be the only available solution.

High School Ponders Ways of Attracting Additional Students To Its Well Equipped Home Ec and Industrial Arts Departments

"It's the best-equipped kitchen in town," in the opinion of PHS Principal John Sakala.

Two table-top ranges, three microwave ovens, freezer, refrigerator, dish-washers...

"You name it — you can make it there," the principal says. "We put $175,000 into renovations for the Home-Ec department."

Over in Industrial Arts, a new dust-collector runs all the time. About $100,000 went into the metal shop and $25,000 to $30,000 in general renovations: a furnace and welding station, new heating-ventilating system; refinishing room...

But only 37 students take Home Ec. Only 126 take Industrial Arts. In both, some students are double-counted (taking more than one subject). There are 1,091 students in the school.

"Nothing will increase Home Ec. enrollment," Mr. Sakala said flatly last Tuesday to the school board, as it pondered the new budget.

Trying to build up Home Ec., Mr. Sakala and his staff made up a special brochure last year, made sure every student got one, put out daily ads over the public-address system: 12 course offerings, including chef-level food courses, foreign foods, tailoring as well as sewing, "survival" cooking and sewing for singles, maybe a

FLOAT? pre-school practicum in some day-care center.

Response: almost zero.

Receptions are held in the Home Ec. area, so was the special dinner for the Rotary Club — prepared by non-Home Ec. students who made lasagna and bread. A home-room has been deliberately scheduled there, meetings are held in the area, for Nancy Arcamone — the only teacher left — the "service assignment" is to stay in the Home Ec. rooms instead of patrolling the halls, like other teachers. Just in case some kids might want to drop in.

"Our best efforts came to naught," Mr. Sakala shrugs.

Some Are Assigned There. "Included in those 37 taking Home Ec. are some kids we assigned there because we thought they might benefit from learning basic living skills," Mr. Sakala told the board, "Without them..." and he shook his head.

The budget shows some $11,000 more for Home Ec. Of that, $5,500 is for new equipment and $1,000 for replacing old equipment. It's the first budget in two years that has included new equipment.

At last week's board meeting, Superintendent Paul Houston remarked that the increase "seemed out of line."

Two years ago, the year after he became principal, Mr. Sakala initiated an "open shop" in the Industrial Arts area. You can come in, make a cabinet, fix a car, work on an Independent Study project. This fall, 38 students — female as well as male — are in Open Shop.

"We hope it will get the kids interested," sighs Ronald Deale, of the Industrial Arts faculty.

With James Bulger, who teaches history, but has always been interested in craftsmanship, Mr. Deale launched his boat project this fall (See box, page 30.)

Kids drop in to work on the boat instead of going to study hall. About a dozen — "eight to 12 or 14" — devote Wednesday afternoon to boat building.

"I'd like to see us build another one next year, add to the fleet, form a sailing club," Mr. Deale says, with hope.

Once, there were six classes in wood-working. What happened?

No Vocational Slant. Some, like Mr. Sakala, think interest dropped off when West Windsor-Plainsboro students left the high school. Others point to the acknowledged fact that neither Home Ec nor Industrial Arts at PHS has a vocational slant.

Serious students peel off, in 11th or 12th grades, to Mercer County's Arthur Sypek Vocational Center. Others take vocational courses after they graduate.

Mechanical drawing, taught by Mr. Deale, is the big course in Industrial Arts, with 54 students.

"These boys and girls are the best students in the high school," Mr. Sakala says. "They are the engineering and science kids, and they figure that architectural drawing and drafting will be a big help to them in college."

6-3 Triumph over Brown Leaves Hockey Team In First Place; Cornell Sextet Here Next Jan. 25

With the Princeton hockey team currently sitting atop the Ivy league standings, it's fun to speculate on the Tigers' chances of remaining there, but there appears to be only one certain conclusion.

The champion will not be decided until the night of Saturday, March 6, when all six teams play for the final time. Given the balance that exists in the league, it's doubtful any one will be able to claim the title sooner.

With about one-quarter of the 30 Ivy games already played, The Orange and Black remains the only undefeated team. All others have lost at least once. The 6-3 triumph over Brown in Baker Rink last Saturday gave Princeton a 2-0-1 mark and five points, one ahead of the second-place Bruins.

The Tigers have yet to play on the road, and have one more home contest with Cornell on Monday, January 25, before they must face Yale.

BROWN BEATEN: Princeton's Tom Shustarich (19) lines up a shot against Brown goalie Paul McCarthy during action in the third period in the 6-3 victory over Brown last Saturday night in Baker Rink.

away on Friday the 29th. Between now and then they will be involved in mid-term exams, while the Big Red, which runs on a different academic calendar, will play three times.

Just as a victory over Brown here was important to the team's title hopes, so is one over Cornell. With five of its last six games away, Princeton must get its points early.

Two years ago coach Jim Higgins led the Tigers to a 7-1 Ivy record, good for second place behind Dartmouth. This was the team's first winning season in league competition in 27 years.

Brown Bombed. Sixty minutes of fast-paced hockey on successive nights is tough enough at home, even more so on a long road trip. Brown found that out last weekend when it had to play Cornell in Ithaca Friday night, and then come here to face the Tigers.

The Bruins played well in a 5-4 overtime victory against Cornell, but had little left against the Tigers the following night. Cornell also lost to Yale at home earlier in the week, and will have a tough time getting back in the race.

Some 2,200 strangely quiet spectators, watched Princeton put the Bruins away in the first period, scoring three times. Sean Sherman opened the scoring with the Tigers enjoying a four on three man-power advantage. He took a pass from Rob Scheuer in the slot and swept it by Brown goalie John Franzosa.

That came at 8:34, and four minutes later a defensive lapse by Brown allowed Chuck Higgins to skate in unmolested from the right side. His shot from the circle caught the extreme right corner of the net.

A stupid penalty against a Brown player for checking after the whistle paved the way for the Tigers' third score of the period. Sherman scored his second, on a pass from Ed Lee.

Princeton goalie Ron Dennis made two outstanding saves near the end of the period to preserve the three-goal margin. However, just 44 seconds into the second, Brown cut the deficit to 3-1 when Frank Carnevale managed to slip one under Dennis' pads.

Higgins Again. Almost 10 minutes elapsed before either team could score again, and then Princeton came up with two 11 seconds apart Higgins got his second, assisted by defenseman Mike Boyles, on another sharply angled shot from the right side.

The Tigers immediately brought the puck into Brown's zone again, and Dave Clark found Ross Lambert alone right in front of the net, and the sophomore center made it 5-1.

Three minutes into the third period, Higgins completed his hat trick, scoring the Tigers' final goal, on a pass from Sherman. Higgins and Sherman, along with Jim Matthews, comprised the fourth line for the night and scored five of the six goals between them. Higgins had just one goal to his credit previously.

Brown, which had not threatened Dennis seriously since early in the second, came to life briefly near the six-minute mark of the final period. It scored twice in nine seconds to make the final score 6-3.

The Bruins were indeed lethargic in their play, failing to capitalize on numerous Princeton penalties. Three times they were presented with two-man advantages, but could not score. The longest of these ran for 38 seconds.

Dennis had 27 saves to his credit, while Franzosa and Paul McCarthy, who replaced him early in the third, had 32. The victory raised Princeton's overall mark to 4-7-1, Brown's fell to 5-6. The Tigers were without the services of co-captain Ray Casey, who broke a small bone in his foot earlier in the week. He will be out for about a month.

Did you know that when Notre Dame finished under .500 in the 1981 football season, it amazingly was only the 5th time in 93 YEARS that the Irish lost more games than they won... The only other seasons when Notre Dame was under .500 since 1889, were in 1933 (3-5-1) ... 1956 (2-8-0) ... 1960 (2-8-0) ... and 1963 (2-7-0).

Here's a tough question for you... What team has won more college football games than any other school in history — and yet has never played in a post-season bowl game? ... Answer is Yale, which has won the NCAA record of 718 football victories over the years. No other school is close to that total... But Yale has never played in a post-season bowl game in any year.

I bet you didn't know that apartment or condominium insurance would protect you in case of a break-in or fire.

Oddly enough, it's now been 10 years since a quarterback has won the Heisman Trophy as the outstanding college football player in the nation... Last time a quarterback won the Heisman was 1971 when the winner was Pat Sullivan of Auburn.

Princeton and Penn May Have Company in Ivy Race This Year, After First Road Trip Produces Just One Win Between Them

If last weekend's results are any indication, this may be the most wide-open Ivy League basketball race in more than a decade.

Princeton and Penn, who together have had a stranglehold on the title since 1969, came away from Providence licking their wounds. An upstart Brown quintet, which had not won once in 11 games, upset both of them on successive nights. Penn fell on Friday night 76-75, and the Tigers were knocked off the next evening 58-73.

The Tigers' best managed a split in their weekend's work, with a solid 59-47 triumph at Yale Friday. The Quakers limped home with a pair of losses, dropping another one-point decision, 49-48, to the Elis on Saturday.

The results leave Harvard in first place in the league with a 1-0 mark, followed by Brown and Yale at 2-1. Princeton is at 1-1, and Penn on the bottom at 0-2. Columbia and Cornell begin play this weekend.

Tigers Falter. It was noted here last week that the Orange and Black would need solid performances both nights to return 2-0. They managed to follow that script for a game and a half.

Against a Yale team which had whipped Brown in December, Princeton dominated a contest which was only close for the first 12 minutes.

It was the Craig and Rich show in Payne Whitney Gym, as Robinson and Simkus combined for 44 of the team's points, the former credited with a game-high 24.

With the score tied 11-11 midway through the first half, the Tigers outscored the Bulldogs 10-1, to take a 21-12 lead at halftime. They went right back to work after the intermission, leading by as many as 18 points over the course of the final 20 minutes.

Superb passing helped Princeton break through Yale's man-to-man defense, often leading to easy lay-ups by the winners. On defense, the Tigers used a sliding two-three zone to befuddle the Elis on offense.

Yale's leading scorer Tim Daaleman had a night he would just as soon forget, scoring just eight points, and missing several shots from close in Yale's effort to reach the 40-point mark until just a few minutes remained and the Tigers had started to coast.

All this was accomplished with a minimum of personal fouls on Princeton's part. No player was charged with more than three.

Another bright spot was the play of Simkus, who came off the bench to replace Gordon Enderle, and enjoyed his best game of the season. Neil Christel, too, had his best night in a long time, hitting for 10 points.

Turnaround at Brown. When the Tigers continued their fine play against Brown the following night, coach Pete Carril must have wondered if he was watching the right team.

His players forged ahead in the first half at Providence, leading by eight to 10 points at times. But things started to come apart with just one minute left in the half.

The Bruins went into a full-court press, which resulted in four Tiger turnovers, and six points. That reduced a 28-20 Princeton advantage to 28-26 at the intermission.

There was more bad news to make a run as a league contender.

"We play a half as well as any team," said PHS coach Marvin Trotman, after a 67-43 loss to Ewing Friday and a 73-52 setback to McCorristin earlier in the week. "We just have to maintain that level of consistency the entire game," continued Trotman. "Until we maintain that, we're going to be in trouble."

Fortunately, the level of But the Little Tigers have had competition is not as for their baptism of fire now after midable this week for the Blue almost three weeks of inactivity during the holiday at 8, it will entertain break. They are engaged in struggling Hopewell Valley the midst of a string of eight and on Tuesday it will be at consecutive Colonial Valley West Windsor for an 8 p.m. Conference league games and game with the Pirates who are must jell quickly, if they hope .500 after eight games.

for Carril after the intermission, Brown hit on its first shot to tie the game, and then two more to take a 32-28 lead. The home team steadily increased this to 42-34, and soon had their second upset victory in as many nights.

Princeton was done in by a little-used senior Steve Bowman, who was starting only his second game of the season. He almost tripled his season's average, scoring 20 points. Ira James, the Bruins' top scorer, added 15.

The Tigers could feel fairly satisfied with the job they did on James, but Bowman, who had 16 the night before against Penn, was unstoppable, hitting on shots from 20 feet and more. The loss overshadowed Billy Ryan's best game to date. The sophomore guard tallied 18. Simkus had another fine game, scoring 16 points, many of them coming in the final minutes, but Robinson was held to seven.

The break for mid-term exams will leave the Tigers idle

Can't Win If You Can't Hit. Against Ewing Friday, his team moved the ball around very well, observed Trotman. "We had the shots; we just shot awful. You can't win ball games when your best shooters can't hit the basket."

The first period ended even, but PHS then fell behind to trail by 12 at the half, 32-20. "We could have come back, but we just didn't capitalize," said Trotman. "You've got to get the ball in the basket."

As it turned out, it was the home team Blue Devils that capitalized, outscoring PHS 22-8 in the third stanza to win easily.

Sophomore Kyle Hayes led PHS with 18 points for his best offensive effort of the season. "He should have had more," commented Trotman. "I can't get him to shoot; he refuses to shoot when he's wide open."

Larry McKellar, Princeton's force under the boards, fouled out in the third period with seven points and Dave Barclay added six.

McCorristin Game a War. The game with McCorristin was a physical battle, punctuated by excessive fouling, which sent three PHS players to the sideline, including McKellar and Hayes.

For the most part, PHS was able to handle the famed Iron Mike press and trailed by only nine, 48-39, early in the final period. But then the visitors' press jelled during a spurt in which they stole four PHS inbounds passes to score seven unanswered points to take a 16-point lead.

Don Ellison was the chief thorn in the Little Tigers side; the Iron Mike junior scored a game-high 20 points and helped the victors win the battle of the boards with 18 rebounds.

Trotman, who drew a technical foul late in the until an away contest against Colgate on Tuesday, Jan. 26. They will resume Ivy play against Penn in Philadelphia Saturday, the 30th.

Fairfield Beaten. It was apparent last Tuesday night that the Tigers were still in a state of shock over the last-second loss to Seton Hall.

They almost lost another as time ran out, and to a much less formidable opponent, but fate chose to smile on the Tigers this time.

The result was a 48-45 overtime win because the visitors missed on last shot, both a free throw regulation play and the extra session.

A six-point lead with four minutes left in the game did not hold up for the Orange and Black, largely because it missed two opportunities to convert one-and-one situations into points. Fairfield managed to tie the score at 48-48, and then held the ball for the last 2:40 for a final shot. A 22-foot jumper missed with four seconds remaining, sending the game into overtime.

Fairfield controlled the tap at the start of overtime, and again held for one shot, but Simkus managed to intercept a pass, and hit on a lay-up a minute later for a 50-48 lead.

The Stags then made one of two foul shots to close within one. Neil Christel was fouled a few seconds later, and missed his chance to put the game away.

This set up another final shot for Fairfield, but it missed for a second time, giving the Tigers a hard-fought, but somewhat insignificant win.

game, was critical of the officiating which he labeled an "atrocious." "Somebody could have gotten hurt," he said.

Paul Keaney led PHS with 14 points, most of them long one-handers from outside. Barclay added 10 and Terry Phox had nine.

"We play well at times but we also play poorly. We just didn't get settled into our game," said Trotman.

"We haven't been bothered by the press, not by McCorristin — which kind of surprised me — not by Trenton, but we've got to get it together. We've got to jell and keep our attitude up. You lose a couple of games and it's easy to get down."

VICTORY DROUGHT ENDS

For PHS Quintet. "We were starved for a win," said Princeton High basketball coach Marv Trotman Monday night after its league game with Hightstown.

But that's over now. The Little Tigers are fed. They defeated visiting Hightstown, 66-65, to end their winless string at four.

"This game may give us the confidence we need," said Trotman. "We're still learning, still trying to get it together, but we know how to win now. We moved the ball better than we have been."

Two free throws by Terry Phox with 24 seconds remaining gave PHS a 66-63 lead which proved to be the clincher for the Little Tigers.

Larry McKellar was instrumental in fashioning the win, as the 205-pound senior pulled down 11 rebounds and tossed in 13 points, eight in the final period.

"I thought Larry played well," agreed Trotman. Rebounding is what we want from him and that's what he did tonight. How he goes, goes our team."

The Rams came to town boasting the county's leading scorer in Nick Martini who entered the game with a 21.5 average. The Little Tigers failed to contain him, as the 6-3 senior tossed in 35 points — 21 in the second half, including the Rams' last five — but he got no help from his teammates.

Ram coach Don Hles was clearly unhappy. "There was no intensity, no hustle. We let them intimidate us. The team let me down tonight."

For the slumping Rams it was their third straight loss, and third league loss. PHS is now 1-2 in league play.

JADWIN GYM IS SITE

Of Women's Squash Tourney. The New Jersey Women's Squash Racquets Championship will be held this weekend at Jadwin Gymnasium on the Princeton University campus.

The first round of play will begin Friday at 5 with the quarter finals and semis on Saturday at 9:30 and 2. The championship round on Sunday at 11 will be preceded by the feed-in and consolation rounds at 10:15.

Four former Princeton University captains are entered: Sally Fields, Wendy Zaharko, Cece Turner and Emily Goodfellow Yeoman. Also Louise Gengler, former tennis captain and present Princeton University coach; Dede Webster and Carol Dunham of Princeton and team members Patrice McConnell, Joanne Sherry and captain Margie Colt.

THE BIG ONE NEXT

For Hun Matmen. "Wednesday is the big one. If we want to have a .500 season, this match is one we have to win," said Hun wrestling coach Dove Faus regarding this Wednesday's dual meet against George School in Newton, Pa.

On Friday, Hun will engage in a triangular meet with two prep mat powers, Delbarton and Blair. "A hopeless cause," sighed Faus, "but it will give us a chance to see how some of our wrestlers match up with others for the state meet." Hun is presently 4-3.

Last week, after internal problems forced Girard College to cancel its scheduled meet with Hun, the only opponent Hun faced was Academy of New Church. The New Church team, based in Bryn Athyn, Pa., swept to a 21-0 lead to win easily, 45-12.

Hun made it easier for the victors by forfeiting the 114-lb. class and losing three decisions by one point. "I still don't think we would have won but it would have made it a little more respectable instead of getting our butts whipped," commented Faus on the three close decisions.

Hun's only points came at 128 pounds where Brian Murray won a 6-5 decision and at 134 pounds where Scott Crater was a 13-6 winner. Hun heavyweight Yawan Kayali won by forfeit.

BIG TEST THIS WEEK

For Unheaten Hun Quintet. It may not be the moment of truth but it comes close.

The streaking Hun School basketball team, which has vaulted to a 9-0 start, faces its biggest test of the season this week. It is a two-part exam.

First, rival Lawrenceville School will test the Raiders this Wednesday afternoon at 4:30 on their home court. Then Steinert, a Group 4 high school, will visit Hun Friday night at 8.

"Now we find out," said Hun coach Bob Hendrickson, "whether or not we can handle it. I think it will be two very good ball games."

"I think we can prove something to ourselves — hopefully. It's just a matter of our getting up for it." But as Hendrickson was quick to point out, "Basketball is a funny game. You just don't know. You can win by 30 points one night and lose to the same team the next. You just do the best you can."

Hun's best was more than good enough against Newark Academy and Princeton Day School last week. In both, Hun struggled through a slow start before going on to win easily in the second half. Newark fell, 60-36; Princeton Day, 64-43.

Obviously believing it could not run with Hun, Newark took only 11 shots in the first half, made seven and trailed 24-16 at intermission. "We decided that we didn't like to play their way, come out and trapped them and forced a lot of turnovers," said Hendrickson. Hun got its message across by outscoring NA, 18-4 in the third period.

Mark Murphy paced Hun with 12 points, while Andy Marlatt and a healthy (at last) Paul Franzoni contributed 10 each. Kris Wronski chipped in with eight and junior Dean Forman came off the bench in the final period and added eight more for the victorious Raiders.

Panthers Try Slow Down. Earlier, Princeton Day School's slow down tactics also had the Raiders stymied — for the first period, which saw PDS score four points while limiting Hun to six. That isn't what Hun had expected from an 0-8 team.

In the second period, senior captain Kris Wronski decided it was incumbent upon him to get his team rolling. He stole the ball four consecutive times and converted each swipe to give Hun a 16-4 lead after 63 seconds had expired in the second period. Hun was in command thereafter.

"We are a much better team than we showed; I hope we learn from this," said Hendrickson, after the game. Murphy (18 points) and Wronski, 12, were the leading scorers for Hun, as Paul Pintella and Franzoni combined for 15 more. Freshman John McConaughy sank 13 of 14 free throws and scored 17 points to lead PDS.

School earlier in the week did nothing to encourage him.

PHS lost both by big margins, losing to Hamilton 38-18, and to undefeated Truman High (Pa.), 51-6.

Against Hamilton, pins by freshman 100-pounder Dave Schwartz and by Ralph Carnevale at 167 pounds gave PHS 12 points, but the Little Tigers were able to claim only two decisions in the remaining ten bouts. Brian O'Grady blanked Carlo Dobrigna, 4-0, in their 128-pound match, and Eric Panitz stopped Doug Shaltis, 6-3, in the following match.

Undefeated Truman (6-0) used six pins to roll up the score against the outgunned Little Tigers, its fastest fall coming at 115 pounds where Fran Bing needed only 15 seconds to pin newcomer John Berry.

O'Grady won again for PHS, carving out a 6-4 decision over Pete Lederer, while Josh Miller was the other winner for PHS. He decisioned Frank Palmer, 10-3, in their 121-pound match.

This Wednesday evening at 8, PHS will travel to Hightstown to oppose the Rams in its first Colonial Valley Conference meet.

NOTRE DAME ROUTED

By PHS In Track. The Princeton High School winter track team opened its seven dual meet season last week by trouncing Notre Dame, 58-19.

The Fletcher brothers captured three firsts for the Little Tigers as Lamont won the 60-yard dash in 65.2 and the 440 in 51.7. Stephan Fletcher won the 60 high hurdles in 7.7, edging teammate Wayne Davis (7.8) who was also second in the 60-yard dash.

Veteran Jon Woolston won the 880 with a clocking of 2:04.2 — almost three seconds faster than Notre Dame's Juan Santiago who set a school record in the event for the Irish. Santiago's time was 2:07.0. Princeton's Chris Gillis ran a 10:12 to capture the two-mile by seven seconds.

PHS also won both field events, Tom Murray winning the shot with a toss of 46-11, despite a new ND record of 41-2 in the event by Carmen Calderone, and Ken McKellar grabbed his specialty, the high jump, with a leap of 6-0.

PHS also captured the mile relay, winning by nearly 13 seconds. Coach Marc Anderson's team will be at Hopewell this Wednesday and at Peddie on Friday.

PHS GIRLS LOSE TWO

In Basketball. The Princeton High School girls basketball team is still looking for its first win after losses last week to Ewing and McCorristin. Both were Colonial Valley Conference league games.

On Friday, Ewing placed four in double figures and scored 41 points in the first half en route to a 64-38 win, its third in seven outings. The Little Tigers (0-30) were led by Monica Greenland who had 14 points.

Earlier in the week, a sluggish first half — three points in the first period and seven in the second — was too much to overcome for the Little Tigers, who outscored McCorristin 18-8 in the final period. The final score was McCorristin 46, PHS 35.

Greenland was again high for PHS with 15 points, followed by teammate Tayna Hemmingway who added 14. The win was McCorristin's second against four setbacks.

PRINCETON NAUTILUS FITNESS CENTER

Welcome!

In this week's column we will continue with women and exercise.

Women are becoming more and more aware of the importance of physical activity to improve their internal condition and external physical appearance. Women not only need to, but want to get in shape and stay in shape for a healthier and firmer body. They are turning to weight training on Nautilus equipment because of its effectiveness, its efficiency and its quickness in producing desired results.

We would like to distinguish between weight training and weightlifting. Weightlifting is a competitive sport in which one makes maximum attempts at very high weights; weight training is performed to increase strength while honing the musculature.

What happens to women when they weight train on Nautilus equipment? We learned last week that 99.9 percent of all women cannot physically develop large, bulky muscles. Weight training on Nautilus equipment will not make a woman look masculine but rather will enhance her physical, feminine appearance with a firmed and toned body.

Exercise will give a pleasing contour to the female body and make her more attractive.

The pregnant woman is often more conscious of her health and physical appearance (i.e. she might feel fat, unattractive and have a poor self image). Physically, the expectant mother needs exercise. She should increase muscle strength and tone, emphasizing the gluteus muscles, the abdominal groups, and the back muscles.

In particular her inner thighs need stretching. Hip girdles, knees, ankles and shoulders are specific areas that need exercise. A fitness program that has flexibility, muscle tone and cardio-vascular training will aid her in decreasing low back strain, strengthen her posture and improve circulation, maybe rid her of varicose veins. Her self image and attitude will improve as well.

We feel that women who are in good shape do better in labor and delivery than women who are not. Labor is a stressful time but if a woman is fit, she will probably have a more positive experience than someone who isn't.

Preferably, a woman should be involved in a routine exercise program before she became pregnant. However, women can start their Nautilus exercise program in the first few months of pregnancy. After that, save Nautilus for post-delivery training.

With good supervision and "work-out schedule," Nautilus can provide all the essentials of a well-rounded exercise program for women and pregnant women. Women are finally enjoying exercise and healthy bodies. They are no longer just spectators but participants as well!

Topics of the Town

"A lot of people who draw or who want to be architects, have never been involved in making anything," Mr. Deale explains. "This course helps them see the problems."

After January 22, in the new marking period, he will start drafting students working on plans for a storage building. They will draw up plans and specifications and then build it.

Electricity Course. Another strong course in this department, Mr. Sakala says, is an electricity course which is "more like a physics course."

"This isn't just wiring a lamp," he explains, "it's repairing and maintaining sophisticated electronic equipment — stereo, amplifiers. A kid in physics course can really get enrichment here."

With the costs of lumber and metal five or six times what they were five years ago, with classes limited to 15 for safety reasons, with enrollment so shaky, What to do?

One possibility is to continue the Middle School's "cycle" program into freshman year at the high school. At the Middle School, students are cycled into music, shop, basic home economics and the like. Perhaps these subjects could be required of all freshmen.

"But it's outside the high school's free elective system," Mr. Sakala says thoughtfully, "I'm not sure it would be enthusiastically received."

"I'd hoped that requiring a half-year of practical arts would help these areas pick up enrollment, but it hasn't. Most kids take typing."

Dr. Houston said last week that the options, with Home Ec., at least, are to give it up, provide limited services or re-define. It is expected that some kind of decision will be reached this spring.

Building a Boat One Idea to Promote Industrial Arts Course at High School

The idea, of course, is to get kids into the Industrial Arts rooms at the High School and catch their interest so they'll stay.

The director of the Mystic Seaport Museum, a friend of history teacher James Bulger, gave Mr. Bulger and industrial arts teacher Ronald Dale the name of a boat-builder on the Jersey shore willing to act as consultant.

It was decided to build a 15'9" "New Haven Sharpie," a sailboat from the 1880s, chosen because it's a relatively simple, flat-bottom, shallow-draft boat. (Shallow draft, because everybody hopes to sail it on shallow Lake Carnegie.)

The plan is a very simple one, with an offset chart of measurements. Using these, you cut out paper patterns to size and start to build. You need to use both English and math to understand directions and figure out how to construct the boat.

A half-inch plywood skin will cover the frame. Seams will be fiberglassed. Modern, epoxy-style adhesives glue it together.

The stringers are oak, green so the wood will bend to shape the frame, and the rest of the boat is Douglas fir. A friend with a sawmill did the cutting. The curve has an almost imperceptible dent: "We'll need to shim," Mr. Dale says. That means pad it out.

This Wednesday, students were scheduled to glue the chine—where bottom and sides meet.

Mr. Dale shops the lumber yards for wood and says Mr. Sakala is "very supportive" about providing money. He isn't being paid for the boat project.

"If I weren't doing this on a Wednesday afternoon," he shrugs, "I'd be in some meeting."

PBA OFFERS COURSE
In Marksmanship For Juniors. The Patrolmen's Benevolent Association (PBA) Local No. 130 will sponsor a Junior Rifle Marksmanship Program for 1982. Classroom instruction and supervised indoor firing will be provided by National Rifle Association certified instructors.

The purpose of the program is to teach the safe and proper use of firearms while promoting the development of rifle marksmanship skills. Qualification awards may be earned during the program, and those completing the program will receive an NRA diploma.

The course of instruction will begin with an orientation session on Sunday, February 7, from 9-11 for all youngsters who have not attended the program in the past. Attendance at this session is mandatory in order to participate in the program. Sessions are held at the Princeton University Range located between Palmer Stadium and Washington Road. All equipment, including rifles and ammunition, will be provided.

Anyone between the ages of 11-18 who wishes to register may call Joe Tamasi at 921-7485 between 7 and 9 p.m. Parental permission is required.

YOUTH ARE INVOLVED
In Community Newspaper. "Helikon Corner," the inter-community newspaper written by and for children age 6-14 will soon publish the second issue of the four scheduled for the 1981-82 school year.

Young writers and artists from the Princeton elementary and middle schools, the Constable School in South Brunswick, the Grant School in Trenton and the two elementary schools in Holmdel will be sharing their news and views; their poetry and fiction, puzzles and cartoons.

This year, in an effort to publish more youngsters' work; Community Park School, Littlebrook and Riverside School in Princeton are pooling their efforts to publish a Princeton Regional Journal. Helikon associate Janet Jones has been working with a student editorial staff as part of the P.E.P. program to publish this special news journal. This intra-community newspaper will publish its first issue in January with the aid of Riverside student staff.

REORGANIZATION SET

By ADR Division. Spurred by record sales revenues expected to exceed $100 million within three years, Applied Data Research has announced a major United States sales force reorganization of its Software Products Division.

U.S. revenues represent about 60 percent of ADR's worldwide sales, which are expected to exceed $44 million in 1981. The Software Products Division develops and markets a broad range of data base management, program development, text processing, and performance measurement products.

E. Linwood Pearce, vice president-U.S. sales manager for the Software Products Division, said each ADR account representative is now offering customers ADR's entire line of systems software products. In addition, Mr. Pearce said a new management level has been created to meet clients' increasing demand for integrated products.

The new management level includes group managers, responsible for sales, support and training in three areas across the U.S.; a director of national accounts; and a manager of advanced sales, responsible for sales promotions.

Appointments include Charles H. Warhaftig, northern group manager, Michael M. Morestein, southern group manager, and James J. Ledsal, western group manager. James D. Huff is director, national accounts, and Raymond E. Margerum is manager of advanced sales. All have more than 10 years experience in the software products industry and report directly to Mr. Pearce.

IRA EXPLAINED

In Two Sessions at Bank. New Jersey National Bank will present two special programs, entitled "IRA Over Coffee," at the bank's Princeton office, 194 Nassau Street, on Wednesday, January 27, at 4:30 and at 7:30.

"IRA Over Coffee" will acquaint area business owners and managers, and individuals, with Individual Retirement Accounts. Bank officials will describe the advantages of the new accounts in tax saving today and retirement security tomorrow. Recent changes in the tax laws affecting retirement and estate planning will also be outlined.

The 4:30 p.m. program will also focus on business IRA needs, including options for employee payroll deduction plans, and KEOGH plans. Princeton business owners and managers are encouraged to attend this program. A question and answer period will follow each of the two seminars.

Prior to January 1, only individuals not eligible for qualified pension plans were able to take advantage of Individual Retirement Account benefits. Now, however, anyone is eligible to open an IRA, a savings program to provide financial security for retirement years. Individuals may invest up to $2,000 from annual earnings, deferring taxes on the deposit and the interest earned ($2,250 per couple with one employed spouse).

To reserve a chair and a cup of coffee for either "IRA Over Coffee" program call New Jersey National Bank's Princeton office at 921-6000 through January 27 at noon.

TO MAKE PLAN

For School in Germany. The Hillier Group, architects and planners, has been commissioned to make a master plan for the expansion of the International School of Frankfurt, Germany.

This is the fourth international commission for the firm, the previous projects being in France, Austria, and Mexico. The first was the doubling of the American International School in Vienna, Austria in 1973.

Joel Spaeth, a principal in the Hillier Group, will head the project.

The school serves the families of international corporations who are stationed in Frankfurt.

LABORATORY IS PROJECT

For Princeton Firm. CUH2A, architecture and engineering firm, is currently designing a major laboratory for the Central Research Division of Pfizer Inc. in Groton, Conn. The project is being built on a "fast-track" basis with construction proceeding simultaneously with design. Occupancy is scheduled for July 1983.

Pfizer's new building represents the state of the art in laboratory design. CUH2A's design seeks to provide an environment conducive to creative thinking and productive interaction among scientists.

The new building will include 84 laboratories of 720 square feet each, an extensive research library, animal holding quarters, and the Central Research Administrative Headquarters.

NEW TECHNOLOGIES SET

For Prudential Buildings. The Prudential Insurance Company of America has used energy-saving and environment-conserving technology in its new "Enerplex" office complex under construction on Route 1. The two Enerplex buildings, 260,000 square feet each, are being built by Prudential for prospective corporate tenants at the Princeton Forrestal Center.

The project consists of two three-story buildings, each harnessing available sources of natural energy to keep the structures cool in the summer, warm in the winter and to make maximum use of daylight. Enerplex North is an all-glass wall building with an enclosed atrium that acts like a giant passive solar collector. An "ice pond" is used to provide cooling for Enerplex

North in the summer.

Enerplex South has a limestone exterior with windows designed to respond to the varying solar conditions of each exposure. A heat pump linked to a natural aquifer below the project site helps heat and cool the building. Prudential is looking for between one and six corporate tenants for the buildings.

In Princeton

SERVICE AT CHAPEL

To Honor Martin Luther King, The Rev. Dr. Samuel D. Proctor, a professor at the Rutgers University Graduate School of Education in New Brunswick, will be the guest preacher at the Princeton University Chapel's Martin Luther King, Jr., Memorial Service on Sunday at 11 a.m.

Prof. Proctor holds the Martin Luther King Memorial Chair at Rutgers. He is also senior minister at the Abyssinian Baptist Church of New York City. He will preach on "The Recovery of Human Compassion."

SEMINARY CELEBRATES

King Birthday. Under the sponsorship of the Association of Black Seminarians, Princeton Theological Seminary plans a celebration of Martin Luther King, Jr.'s birthday on Friday. A day of learning and worship will highlight the slain civil rights leader's contributions to his country and to the Christian faith.

At noon the Rev. Charles Sherrod, City Commissioner in Albany, Ga., will speak in Miller Chapel. A graduate of Virginia Union College and Seminary in Richmond, Va., and recipient of the STM degree from Union Theological Seminary in New York City, Mr. Sherrod was an early organizer of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC). Also active in the Albany Movement which invited Dr. King to assist in the struggle for Civil Rights in 1961, Mr. Sherrod participated in the Southwest Georgia Project, advocating literacy, voter education and land development for Blacks.

Dr. James I. McCord, Seminary president, and Mr. Sherrod will lead a panel presentation at 12:30 in the Campus Center lounge.

A worship service will begin at 7:30 p.m., in Miller Chapel, with Dr. William A. Jones, Jr., pastor of Bethany Baptist Church of Brooklyn, New York, preaching. Dr. Jones graduated from Crozer Theological Seminary in 1961 and has studied at the University of Lagos in Nigeria and the University of Ghana at Legon. He is currently the President of the National Black Pastors' Conference and a member of the Martin Luther King, Jr., Fellows, Inc. The Seminary Choir and the Echoes of Shiloh of Trenton will sing at the service.

The community is invited.

PEOPLE OF FAITH

Topic of Christ Congregation Series. "Biographies of People of Faith" is the title of a new "Second Hour" series at Christ Congregation, Walnut Lane and Houghton Avenue. The series will begin Sunday at 11 after the 10 a.m. worship services. Five individuals have volunteered to share with the congregation the life stories of men and women who have touched their lives and influenced their faith.

The series will begin with a study of the life of Martin Luther King Jr. led by Emma Epps. It will continue January 24 with a look at the life of Howard Thurman, a renowned preacher and pioneer in inter-racial ministries led by Hazel Staats-Westover.

On January 23, Margot Pickett will share her reflections on Angelina and Sara Grimke, two sisters who were leading abolitionists in the mid-19th century. Paul Lehman, the distinguished professor of theology at Union Theological Seminary, will be the subject of a study led by Peter Ferriby on February 7. The series will conclude on February 14 with a class led by Shelly Stackhouse on the life of Dietrich Bonhoeffer, the noted German theologian who was executed by the Nazis for his complicity in a plot to assassinate Hitler.

LAY MINISTRY TOPIC

At All Saints' Workshop. All Saints' Episcopal Church will hold a workshop on the development of lay ministry on Saturday from 10 to 1. The Rev. Frederick Gutekunst, rector of St. Michael's Church in Wayne will be on hand with one or two laymen from his parish to lead the discussion.

As the Rev. A. Orley Swartzentruber puts it: "Lay ministry is not a way for amateurs to do the rector's work — it is a work in itself, which the rector cannot do, both because his time is already filled and because God means it to be done by others, lay men and women."

All who are interested in the development of lay ministry in the All Saints' parish are invited.

SERVICE PLANNED

For Christian Unity. This year marks the 75th anniversary of the "Week of Prayer for Christian Unity" and a service of celebration will be held Sunday afternoon at 4:30 in the Dillon Gymnasium at Princeton University.

The observance, a "service in song and word," is being sponsored by the Ecumenical Council, the New Jersey Council of Churches, the Commission on Ecumenism and Interreligious Affairs of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Trenton and the Trenton Ecumenical Area Ministry (TEAM).

Church choirs and congregations in New Jersey are being invited to participate in this event on the eve of the octave of "prayer for unity," January 18 through 25. Churches are being asked to make a particular effort to bring the elderly and handicapped in their congregations, and special seating for these people will be provided.

Erik Routley, professor of church music and director of chapel at Westminster Choir College, will lead in the singing of hymns.

The preacher will be the Rev. Robert T. Newbold, Jr., associate stated clerk of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. The Rev. Mr. Newbold has been a lecturer in homiletics at New York, New Brunswick and Princeton Theological Seminaries.

The Rev. Mr. Newbold will also deliver the sermon at the service the day before, Saturday, at 5:30 at St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church, and he will be the guest preacher on Sunday at the 11 a.m. service at the Witherspoon Presbyterian Church to which the public is invited. A reception and coffee hour will follow.

The Rev. John Crocker, Jr., rector of Trinity Episcopal Church, will give a short talk during the service at Dillon Gymnasium on the origin of the "Week of Prayer for Christian Unity." The Rev. Mr. Newbold will then be introduced by Mrs. Alma Hill, president of the representative assembly of TEAM and a vice president of the New Jersey Council of Churches.

* OUR PROMISE TO PRINCETON CONSUMERS:

IF YOU HAVE A COMPLAINT against any local business firm just call 924-8223 and a Consumer Bureau representative will investigate and mediate, then if you are not satisfied and

IF CONSUMER BUREAU'S ALL-CONSUMER PANEL AGREES that your complaint is valid, the business firm involved has only two choices: either satisfy your complaint promptly or lose its Consumer Bureau Registration

YOU CAN CHECK by phone any time you like whether any local business firm you name is Consumer Bureau Registered

(Not all reliable local firms are Registered, but for every Registered firm we have been obliged to take off our Register ten times that number of UnRegistered firms have failed to meet our standards of reliability)
